The Honorable Board of Supervisors
County of Los Angeles
383 Kenneth Hahn Hall of Administration

Los Angeles, CA 90012

Dear Supervisors:

LOS ANGELES COUNTY OPERATIONAL AREA STRATEGIC PLAN FOR EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT
(ALL AFFECTED) (3 VOTES)

IT IS RECOMMENDED THAT YOUR BOARD:

1. Endorse and adopt the Los Angeles County Operational Area Strategic Plan for Emergency Management.
2. Instruct the Chief Administrative Office, in collaboration with affected department heads and directors, to manage the Strategic Plan and to report annually to your Board on the implementation progress of the plan.
3. Authorize the Chief Administrative Officer to make modifications to the initiatives, as required, to implement the intent and goals of the Strategic Plan.

PURPOSE OF RECOMMENDED ACTION

The purpose of the recommended action is to obtain your Board's endorsement of the goals and initiatives of the Emergency Management Strategic Plan. The plan includes fourteen goals and 63 initiatives which will advance our ability to respond to and recover from a major disaster. The Emergency Management Council reviewed the Strategic Plan on December 6, 2001 and voted unanimously to request your Board's approval.

In August 2000, the Office of Emergency Management spearheaded a series of six workshops that culminated in the development of this strategic plan. More than 300 people participated in the workshops, including representatives from County departments, as well as representatives of major stakeholder organizations, including non-profits, cities and schools, businesses, the news media, and scientists and academicians. The final workshop included executive managers from key County departments.

The terrorism events of September 11 underscore the need for proactive emergency management planning. The goals and initiatives in this plan address all hazards, including earthquakes, fires, floods, and terrorism. County actions to implement this plan will make us more able to meet the challenges of any major disaster.

With your Board's approval, work on the initiatives will begin in 2002, and we envision completion of the work within five years. My Office of Emergency Management will monitor work on the initiatives and provide an annual progress report to your Board.

Implementation of County Strategic Plan Goals

This Emergency Management Strategic Plan fully supports the County Strategic Plan and the County Vision by strengthening teamwork, collaboration and professionalism, and through emphasis on service excellence. All of the people who met in workshops to develop this plan were given a copy of the County Vision and asked to help develop goals and initiatives to implement this vision. The Emergency Management Strategic Plan supports and implements the County's Strategic Plan by:

- C promoting service excellence through stronger programs to enhance disaster communications, improve disaster preparedness information, strengthen post-disaster public information, and expand workplace safety programs;
- C enhancing workforce excellence through better training programs, including the development of a disaster training academy, and programs to better inform County executive managers and elected officials on issues related to emergency management;
- C strengthening organizational effectiveness through stronger partnerships with the 88 cities, 94 school districts and dozens of other special districts within the Los Angeles County Operational Area and with key nonprofits and businesses;
- C encouraging fiscal responsibility through improved systems for post-disaster claiming of costs eligible for State and Federal reimbursement.

JUSTIFICATION

This plan is for the Operational Area, which is part of the California Standardized Emergency Management System legislation (Title 19, Division 2 of the California Code of Regulations). This states that all local governments within counties should be organized into a single operational area by December 1, 1995. Your Board passed a resolution on July 5, 1995 establishing the Los Angeles County Operational Area.

Large disasters seldom impact only one city or County area. Under the State law referenced above, the County is the leader of the Operational Area, which includes all the cities and other local governments within the County, and this Operational Area Strategic Plan will strengthen the ability of the County to perform its emergency management leadership role effectively.

Honorable Board of Supervisors

FISCAL IMPACT

Most of the initiatives in the Emergency Management Strategic Plan will be completed with no fiscal impact, within existing departmental budgets. Some of the initiatives may require funding, but this cannot be determined until County staff actually begins work on the initiatives. Departments cannot determine the fiscal impact on the more complex initiatives until staff fully defines the scope of the required work and completes an analysis of resources that will be required.

FINANCING

Most of the initiatives will be completed with no new funding. For the initiatives where funding may be required, requests for budget adjustments will be submitted, as required. My office will encourage departments to seek grant funding wherever possible.

FACTS AND PROVISIONS/LEGAL REQUIREMENTS

Not applicable.

IMPACT ON CURRENT SERVICES (OR PROJECTS)

Through adoption and implementation of the goals and initiatives in the Emergency Management Strategic Plan, the County will be more effective in response to and recovery from a major disaster.

Respectfully submitted,

DAVID E. JANSSEN
Chief Administrative Officer

LOS ANGELES COUNTY OPERATIONAL AREA STRATEGIC PLAN FOR EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT

December 2001

Executive Summary: Los Angeles County Operational Area Strategic Plan for Emergency Management

BACKGROUND

The last Los Angeles County multi-year plan for emergency management was approved by the Board of Supervisors in May, 1987, and work was completed in January, 1993. As a result of initiatives in that plan the County has emergency response support systems that are unmatched by any similar government, including a state-of-the-art County Emergency Operations Center and the Countywide Integrated Radio System that supports emergency communications between County departments.

Since completion of work on the 1987 plan, there have been important lessons and considerable changes in the structure of emergency management and in the County's responsibilities. Some examples:

- C During the 1990s Los Angeles County was hit by a series of Presidentially declared disasters, including the 1992 Civil Unrest, the 1993 Old Topanga and Kinneloa Fires, the 1994 Northridge Earthquake, and two flood emergencies. The County and other governments within the operational area learned important lessons from these emergencies.
- C A 1993 California law established the Standardized Emergency Management System (SEMS), which significantly changed the way local governments organize their response to disasters.
- C The 1993 SEMS law also stimulated the formation of an operational area under County leadership, increasing the emergency management responsibilities for the County.¹
- C Continuing advances in technology and science call for a periodic review of emergency management practices.

Recognizing these significant changes in emergency management, the Los Angeles County Emergency Management Council directed the development of a new emergency management strategic plan as part of their calendar Complete by December 31, 2003000 workplan.

THE CONTINUING THREAT OF DISASTER

Los Angeles County has the largest population of any county in the United States, with a population of 9.8 million. The County covers 4081 square miles. The County led the nation in federal disaster declarations in the decade of the 1990s, with nine declared disasters, including earthquakes, floods, wild fires, and civil unrest. The Los Angeles County Operational Area includes more than 280 independent local governments, including 88 cities, 94 school districts, and dozens of other special districts.

¹SEMS legislation is contained in Title 19, Division 2 of the California Code of Regulations. The law states that local governments within each county, including cities, school districts, and other special districts should be organized into a single operational area by December 1, 1995. The L.A. County Board of Supervisors passed a resolution on July 5, 1995 establishing the L.A. County Operational Area.

The County is located in one of the world's most seismically active areas, with a historical record of major² earthquakes occurring about seven times each century. The Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) has initiated a new planning effort to address the challenges of a major (magnitude 7.2) earthquake on the Newport-Inglewood Fault.

According to a Hazards U.S. (HAZUS) threat analysis, this earthquake could cause 100,000 casualties, damage to more than two million buildings, and economic losses of over $158 billion.

THIS PLAN AND THE THREAT OF TERRORISM

On September 11, 2001, the United States was struck by the worst terrorist attacks in the nation's history. Los Angeles County is a desirable target for terrorist organizations.

The goals and initiatives in this plan will make the operational area and the County more prepared for a terrorist event or the threat of terrorism.

WHY AN OPERATIONAL AREA STRATEGIC PLAN?

As the leader of the operational area, the County is the communications and coordination link between local governments and state government after a major disaster. The County is responsible for establishing operational area priorities and managing mutual aid. Cities, school districts, and other special districts depend on the County to effectively lead the operational area.

The operational area needs a strategic plan to address the immense challenges presented by a continuing threat of disasters combined with the need for coordination of a complex array of local governments.

THIS PLAN AND THE LOS ANGELES COUNTY VISION

The Board-approved County vision adopted in January 2000 includes a philosophy of "teamwork and collaboration" leading to service excellence. This strategic plan fully supports this vision, through emphasis on cooperation among County departments and between the County and our communities, including local governments, and private businesses and nonprofits.

One of the most important lessons from the disasters of the '90s is the need for synergetic emergency management relationships among private and public organizations.

HOW WAS THE STRATEGIC PLAN DEVELOPED?

This plan represents ideas gathered in a series of six workshops during 2000, from more than ²The United States Geological Survey (USGS) considers a major earthquake to be magnitude 7 or larger.

300 people. In the first five workshops, people from cities, County departments, nonprofits, businesses, the news media, and the academic and scientific communities contributed to the goals and initiatives. In a final three-day workshop, County executives gathered with key community representatives to review the substantial body of work accomplished during the preceding five workshops.

ABOUT THE PLAN

The plan includes 14 goals and 63 initiatives to enhance the County's ability to manage internal disaster programs and to strengthen the County's management of the operational area. The plan assigns specific tasks to County departments, and includes recommendations as to which non-County organizations might provide advice and assistance. A number of themes flow through the plan:

- C Enhance cooperation and communication among organizations in the operational area.
- C Strengthen programs to promote home and workplace preparedness.
- C Lead in the development of community mitigation programs.
- C Increase the knowledge and skills of emergency managers and others with significant disaster responsibilities.
- C Strengthen disaster public information programs.
- C Develop new opportunities for elected officials and government executives to gain greater knowledge of the effects of disasters on their communities and organizations, in order to increase their support for planning, preparedness, and mitigation programs.

The 1987 plan established response systems and hardware that will continue to serve us into the foreseeable future. The new plan will provide opportunities to strengthen organizational relationships within the operational area.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

This plan was written by staff in the Office of Emergency Management, but it reflects the work of many people who are committed to excellence in emergency management programs. More than 200, most of whom are not County staff, took time away from their duties to share ideas in half-day workshops. Another 125 County executives and non-County people, representing key stakeholder agencies, attended a three-day workshop in December 2000 to focus exclusively on the issues in this plan.

Special acknowledgment must go to the December workshop facilitation teams and their employers. These included staff from the American Red Cross: Michael Amado, Louise Kolbert, Colleen Thomas, and Scott Underwood; INFO LINE of Los Angeles: Kimberly Kwon and Burt Wallrich; and the California Office of Emergency Services: Frank Cowan, Cathie Currie, Rob Gandy, and Stephen Sellers.

Many people contributed to the development of this plan, from the highest level County executives, to people representing cities, businesses, and nonprofit organizations. This high level of support and diverse range of participation is a strong indication of the potential for stronger collaborations within the Los Angeles County Operational Area.

VISION

The following vision was adopted during the last of six strategic planning workshops to provide a direction and framework for the strategic plan.

Through implementation of the goals and initiatives in this strategic plan, the Los Angeles County Operational Area will be better positioned to effectively prepare for, respond to, and recover from emergencies by meeting the needs of the County's diverse communities, through

- C public education,
 - C mitigation,
 - C training and exercises,
 - C quality planning,
 - C effective communications, and
 - C teamwork and cooperation between County departments and with local governments, businesses, and nonprofits.

This vision for emergency management echos key elements of the County Vision through emphasis on teamwork and cooperation, respect for diversity, professionalism, and a strong sense of shared values among the many participants that contributed to this plan.
